#AOSExploresMissingPerspectives

Five years ago, Syracuse University and partner JPMorgan Chase, co-founded the Institute for Veterans and Military Families (IVMF) – the first interdisciplinary national institute in higher education focused on issues impacting transitioning Service members and Families. And today, the Institute is a leader in research and analysis, best practices and programs committed to serving today’s Military. In November 2015, IVMF released a comprehensive report that deepens the understanding of transition experiences and aspirations of post 9/11 Veterans and their Families.

Join this FREE national web event as we explore one of the largest data collections to date – Missing Perspectives Report – that reveals the impact of transition from the perspective of Service members. Space is limited!

Participants will explore:

- Debunking myths about today’s Service members
- Bringing the “missing perspectives” of Veterans into national conversations
- Strengths and contributions of today’s transitioning Service members
- Recent perspectives about Military service and life after the Military
- Helpful resources to support Service members who face unique challenges and barriers with transition and education
